can Literature from Siliman University, Dumaguete City, Philippines. She is an Assistant Professor at the Communication Department of Chaminade University where she has been teaching Intercultural Communication and other communication courses since 2004.

“Learning has always been about what we see and what we do. HSFCA brings to us art that challenges us to think beyond what the images can offer. Those of us who spend our time nurturing our imagination contribute to a community where kindness and sharing become the products of beautiful works of art. I believe that we who are tasked to stir imaginations do not only provide joy but bring a cultural strength – that sense of history which sustains every member of our community.” – Eva Rose B. Washburn-Repollo

Sherman Warner is president of the Waimea Community Association and serves on the County of Hawai'i Environmental Management Commission. During his 35-year career in the professional theatre, he was a co-founder of Dodger Productions, where he produced and managed more than two dozen Broadway shows and won multiple Tony Awards. His productions toured extensively in North America as well as playing in London and Australia.

“Although I was lucky enough to spend more than 30 years working in the professional theatre, surrounded by the visual arts riches of NYC, I haven't forgotten my early exposure to the arts as a child growing up in Honolulu. I want to make sure that the life of every child in Hawai'i, especially on the outer islands, is enriched by the arts, that their exposure to the arts is greater than mine was. I also want to make sure that we all understand that the arts not only enrich our lives, but they can also be an economic engine in our communities by appealing to residents and visitors alike.”

Performer, composer and teacher Kenny Endo shares insights into and images of his upcoming projects, collaborations, philosophy of teaching, and influences. Classically trained in Japan and now known world-wide as a master of taiko drumming, Kenny's career spans over three decades.

Originally trained as a jazz musician and fluent in musical styles ranging from the traditional to the contemporary, Kenny is comfortable blending classical taiko drumming with the rhythms of world music. His career has taken him around the globe, with performances, commissions, residencies and collaborations with world-class artists in Asia, Europe, Africa, Australia, the former Soviet Union, Oceania and the Americas to his credit. In 1994, he established the Taiko Center of the Pacific in Honolulu with his wife Chizuko to teach traditional and contemporary Japanese drumming to students of all ages and levels.

Kenny is currently working with apprentice Eric Chang through a grant from the Hawai'i State Foundation on Culture and the Arts Folk and Traditional Arts Program. Kenny and Eric will include in their presentation demonstrations of Japanese festival and classical music and talk about their work to perpetuate the culture of taiko through their HSFCFA grant.

Volunteer training class

This past May, our volunteers, museum security, and some SFCA staff were treated to "Introduction to Hospitality" presented by the University of Hawai'i Kapi'olani Community College. It was a great morning of learning about "Ho'okipa" or hospitality. The class was packed with eager volunteers, and we all had fun participating in role-playing. Our goal is to make all of our visitors feel welcome.

Hawai'i Masterpieces: Ka Hana Kapa

A Statewide Kapa Community Collaboration

We are very fortunate and grateful to receive $100,000 in generous support from a local private donor to assist our Maui kapa outreach. To date, support has come from the National Endowment for the Arts and appropriations from the Legislature of the State of Hawai'i, in addition to funds and in-kind resources from our project partners in the community.

In January 2010, a small group of kapa makers got together with kumu hula Nalani Kanaka'ole (Halau O Kekuhi), to discuss a unique collaboration. The idea was to make original kapa to attire the Hilo-based halau to perform at the ho'ike of the 2011 Merrie Monarch Festival. They called it "The Art of Hula and Kapa." The group strongly believes that everyone needs to know that kapa is alive and practiced, and that those who have become proficient are now teaching others.

This idea then grew to embrace a statewide kapa sharing and community education collaboration, to involve not only more kapa makers, but also arts and culture organizations and community groups on different islands. The overall project is called "Hawaii Masterpieces: Ka Hana Kapa". There are two components to the project: (1) a kapa documentary to be aired on PBS Hawai'i, and (2) statewide outreach activities.

for Hawaii's kapa makers. EKF will continue to assist our statewide outreach. The Maui Arts & Cultural Center is the next community outreach site in January 2014, with a kapa exhibit at the Schaeffer International Gallery, a concert performance at Castle Theatre by Halau O Kekuhi, and companion educational activities for schools and the community. On Kaua'i, the Garden Island Resource, Conservation and Development Inc., will coordinate and implement the 4th Ka 'Aha Hula O Halauaola in July 2014 that will include kapa and hula.

Stay tuned to future enews for announcements of the Maui kapa program, the kapa documentary and the Kaua'i hula and kapa program. Mahalo to our generous donor for making all of this hula and kapa possible.
